

I would like to respond the an article I read today in our local paper regarding the "no-call list". I am disturbed by the notion of the rules regarding no-call list being made less restrictive. The article tells of the national bankers ass. asking the federal regulators to make the change. I doubt you would find ONE person on the no-call list in favor of such a move. Any change would be takeing something that works and make it less desirable.

Marvin Schmeiser